SAAB

Saab XWD gets a grip on your needs.

The Saab XWD cross-wheel drive system is one of the most advanced all-wheel drive systems available, developed together with Haldex. It senses your way of driving and the road conditions at each moment in time. It then actively helps improve the car's behaviour on the road. What you feel is better grip, faster acceleration, more agile cornering behaviour and improved stability. In all kinds of weather.

Acceleration

If you start on a dry surface, most of the torque is distributed to the rear wheels to avoid wheel slip and gain maximum acceleration.

Cornering performance

On a twisting road, the Saab XWD system helps improve the car's agile handling. It distributes more torque to the rear wheels, thus combining responsive curve behaviour with high stability.

Response

The XWD system is designed to react in just 80 milliseconds and continuously vary torque distribution between front and rear.

Grip and stability

If the front wheels hit an icy patch during acceleration, most of the torque is diverted to the rear wheels for enhanced grip and stability.

Designed for real life.

Safety does not contradict excitement, quite the contrary. It's only when you play on the safe side that you can enjoy life to the fullest. We take a similar approach to car design. We study what actually happens on the road in real-life conditions, rather than just performing regular crash tests. This real-life philosophy has led to a range of safety innovations such as SAHR, our award-winning active head restraints fitted in the front seats. As another result, Saab cars are frequently ranked among the best in their class in various safety surveys. But most important of all, this approach helps us boost the impressive real-life safety of our cars. Out on the road.
